The Character Codex

The Character Codex contains 30 Character Biography forms which are interactive and editable. This is a valuable tool for Writers, Producers and Directors in establishing detailed back-stories for each character.

These forms will guide you to create complete biographies which can assist in adding depth and believability to your story. They can be used for initial descriptions to help flesh out the personalities, or in the rewrites to add layers of subtext based on the information provided.

Directors can use them in preproduction to add background not included in the screenplay, and they can be given to Actors to help them understand character goals and motivations for more grounded performances.

You need to think about what makes each person tick, and filling in their biography will often lead to changing a role in significant ways. These details are crucial in determining how each character thinks and acts, and they should also effect their dialog to help them stand out as individuals.

As you fill out these biographies, you need to consider how this information may affect the other characters, and often, how that may also require changes to your story. Remember that everyone has both good and bad in them, and that your film is not likely to be successful if the audience doesn't care about the characters.

IMPORTANT NOTE: The RESET button at the bottom of each page should only be used when you want to erase ALL 30 pages of this form. I suggest that you duplicate this form and rename it with the title of your production so that each film will have it's own Character Codex. Also, SAVE OFTEN just in case you accidentally hit that RESET button.
